

CashCurrency	cash currency	FinancialInstrument, PromissoryNote	A generally accepted form of money, including coins and paper notes, which is issued by a government and circulated within an economy	http://www.investopedia.com/terms/c/currency.asp
CashInstrument	cash instrument	FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument whose value is ascertained directly by markets	http://definitions.uslegal.com/
DebtInstrument	debt instrument	FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument evidencing monies owed by the issuer to the holder on terms as specified	ISO 10962, Securities and related financial instruments - Classification of Financial Instruments (CFI code), Second edition, 2001-05-01.
DerivativeInstrument	derivative instrument	FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument whose contractual behavior and cash flows are dependent upon, or derived from, other financial instruments and/or one or more underlying assets or liabilities.	http://www.investopedia.com/
Entitlement	entitlement, right	FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument that provides the holder the privilege to subscribe to or to receive specific assets on terms specified	ISO 10962, Securities and related financial instruments - Classification of Financial Instruments (CFI code), Second edition, 2001-05-01.
EquityInstrument	equity instrument	FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument representing an ownership interest in an entity or pool of assets	ISO 10962, Securities and related financial instruments - Classification of Financial Instruments (CFI code), Second edition, 2001-05-01.

FinancialInstrument	financial instrument	WrittenContract	A financial instrument is a general class of a wide range of contractual vehicle patterns that establish financial arrangements among the respective parties to each arrangement as specified by the roles of parties and terms required or determined by the contractual structure of the type of arrangement. As a class concept, a financial instrument can be thought of as a template that defines an arrangement structure that remains to be originated with terms and parameters in order to establish a specific instance of the contract type. Examples of financial instrument categories include: cash, evidence of an ownership interest in an entity, or a contractual right to receive (or deliver) cash, or another financial instrument.	OMG Financial Instrument Global Identifier (FIGI) Specification, available at http://www.omg.org/spec/FIGI/ .
Future	future	FinancialInstrument	A contract that obligates the buyer to receive and the seller to deliver in the future the assets specified at an agreed price	ISO 10962, Securities and related financial instruments - Classification of Financial Instruments (CFI code), Second edition, 2001-05-01.
Option	option	FinancialInstrument	A contract that grants to one party of the contract the right to exercise the option to either purchase or sell a specific financial instrument, at a predetermined price or formula, at or before a specific time in the future	ISO 10962, Securities and related financial instruments - Classification of Financial Instruments (CFI code), Second edition, 2001-05-01.
Security	security	Commodity, FinancialInstrument	A financial instrument that can be bought, sold or exchanged.	Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended 12 August 2012