Proceedings:

Today we completed integration of the standalone inflation swaps ontology with the released IR swaps ontology, including referencing the definition from the CFI standard. Note that we chose to merge it with IR swaps rather than the generic swaps or rate based derivatives ontologies because it is included in the CFI as a rate swap, and the others covered in this part of the CFI standard are included in our IR swaps ontology.

On completing this change, we determined that we had covered what needed to be done under SEC-168, and have scheduled it for integration.
