Proceedings:

In addition to what we currently have in basket indices, we are missing bonds indices and commodities indices, among others. The general baskets of instruments or rates should be included in the basket indices ontologies, and a structure that supports adding details for equity indices and bonds indices as a starting point should be treated in subordinate ontologies.

John will work up a list for us of bonds indices as well as some of the other major benchmarks that we need to be able to represent.
